Voters Authorize Expenditure Of $3 Million

Bowen Hopes To Sign School Contract Next Week

Something Old

A bride and groom turned back the pages of history in Andover Saturday, riding from their wedding at St. Augustine's Church in a surrey with a fringe on top. Mrs. Norman Proulx, the former Rosita Salazar, and her husband are shown following the ceremony on the return trip to the Salazar residence on South Main Street. (Graber)

Town officials moved this week to begin work on $2,080,000 worth of school construction and design projects and to make all possible advance preparations for eventual expenditure of an estimated $1 million on sewer, water and highway improvements connecting with the Lowell Junction industrial zone where Gillette Safety Razor Co. plans construction of a 500,000 sq. ft. warehouse and packaging plant for its men's toiletries division.

Their activity was authorized by voters at a special Town Meeting Monday. In all, 803 attended the nearly four-hour session which was adjourned shortly before midnight after a successful challenge of the quorum. (See a related story elsewhere on this page.)

Manager Richard Bowen reports that he should be able to sign the $1.8 million contract for construction of the Bancroft School by Thursday or Friday of next week, following a meeting with the Emergency Finance Board at the State House Wednesday morning. Bowen said he hopes for immediate verbal approval.

Site work for the school will be started as soon as a contractor can be put on the job, Bowen said. This ought to be within about two weeks.

Approval for construction of the controversial school came after a lengthy presentation of data and extended debate, a great deal of which had to do with the fact that the single bid received for the school project last Friday came in $300,000 over the architect's estimate.

Over the weekend the school building committee discussed alterations in the plans that would reduce the construction budget to $1.6 million. What it finally asked for was the appropriation of this sum plus $100,000 for architect's fees and $90,000 for contingencies. Rather than break with tradition and request more than the $1.8 million figure printed in the warrant, Manager Bowen announced that the committee will take bids for furnishings and equipment to be presented at the March Town Meeting.

Little Debate

By contrast, there was little debate and very nearly unanimous approval of the proposal to improve utilities in Ballardvale in order to provide for Gillette Co. Voters agreed 792-4, and gave an enthusiastic welcome to Bernard Murray of Gillette who said he was "delighted" with the support shown and that he would report the outcome to his superiors immediately.

In presenting the case for approval of the Gillette appropriation, Chairman Philip K. Allen of the Board of Selectmen said the town would not move to make the improvements authorized until the Boston-based manufacturer exercises its option for land in the Lowell Junction industrial zone. He said this could be expected

495 Is Seminar Subject

The Conservation Council for Route 495 has announced its intention to sponsor a seminar on the future of that highway. Open to the public, the meeting will be held on Saturday, Sept. 23 at Hudson High School in Hudson, Mass.

Entitled "EXPOSURE 495," the seminar will bring together leaders in the fields of industry, transportation, tourism, architecture, highway safety, conservation and more, to discuss the need for conscious planning in modern highway development. Lieutenant Governor Francis W. Sargent will be the noon speaker. Panel sessions will meet from 8:30 a.m. through 4:30 p.m.

Adjournment Explained

Safety Center Opposed By Employees

Most voters who left Monday's special Town Meeting disgruntled over the fact that the meeting was cut short had no idea what lay behind the sudden motion for adjournment.

Those close to town affairs, however, could see a direct relationship between the challenge of a quorum just after the vote on Article 7 and the dissatisfaction of municipal firefighters over plans of the administration to build a public safety center as a combined police and fire station.

The quorum question was raised by David Batchelder of 6 County Rd. who was until recently an employee of the Andover Fire Department. Giving him vocal support from the balcony were a number of off-duty firemen.

Article 7 - which asked voters to authorize use of funds previously appropriated for new police and fire facilities for construction of a building to be jointly used - had already been approved by a vote of 266 to 39 when Batchelder challenged the quorum. Seven articles were still awaiting consideration. Moderator Arthur Williams first ruled that the vote on Article 7 was invalid after his counters confirmed that the necessary quorum could not be mustered. He reversed this ruling, however, after Harold King, chairman of the planning board pointed out that an undetermined number of people had been seen leaving the auditorium after the vote.

At this point, Manager Richard Bowen moved to adjourn the meeting which could not be continued once it was determined that too few voters were present. He explained that he was asking for a termination of Town Meeting rather than adjournment to a specific time and place because all the work completed could be delayed and jeopardized if the meeting of Aug. 21 had to be continued at a later date when articles already approved would be subject to reconsideration.

As a result, the seven articles left hanging are dead, for the time being at least. The manager said this week that there are no plans for another special meeting which would involve additional expense to the town.

Left for later action were these items:

Article 8. - $20,000 to make up a snow removal shortage.

Article 9. - For a transfer of $14,000 for interest on funded debt and temporary loans in anticipation of bond issues.

Article 13. - Request for an amendment of previous TM action

Contractor Says H.S. Only "Weeks" From Completion

Alfred DiMambro, project supervisor for E. H. Porter Co. on the senior high school construction job, said Wednesday that his company will be prepared next week to set a final completion date for the building.

For some months, the company maintained that it would have the building open by Sept. 1, just a month later than called for in the contract. Recently, however, Porter asked for a 60 day extension. So far this request has been denied, which means a $100 a day penalty is being assessed.

Asked if the school is weeks or months away from completion, Di-

Mambro said, "Weeks." He said just a few things have been delaying the building and he pointed to the fact that full-service electric power has been available for only a few days. The lack of power has delayed the testing of electrical equipment and much of the painting because of the lack of adequate light.

He said the lack of power probably could be blamed in part upon a disagreement between Massachusetts Electric Co. and the electrical sub-contractor over who should bear the expense of bringing power lines in from Shawshen Road.

when owners of the property have met Gillette's requirements for site development work and the elimination of air pollution in the area (from a nearby piggery).

The Proceedings

The meeting, called for 8 p.m., began about 8:20.

Philip K. Allen, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, asked for consideration of the Lowell Junction - Gillette utility article out of order so that corporate representatives in town for the meeting would not have to sit through the school debate.

Chairman Allen spoke for the article, outlining the history of the negotiations between the New England manufacturer, Paul W. Cronin of Andover, until recently an aide to Congressman F. Bradford Morse, Allen, Manager Bowen and others acting on behalf of the town.

He reported that Gillette has a commitment to pay $5000 an acre to owners of the 140 acres of land it has optioned from John Kay and John Cronin (no relation to Paul Cronin) in Lowell Junction, and he became poetic as he described the benefits of having the "internationally known" company located in Andover "for all the world to see on 93."

The chairman said he wanted Town Meeting to refute the often repeated charge that Andover does not want industry. He promised voters that the Selectmen would not invest town funds until Gillette exercises its option and is unalterably committed to construction.

Howell M. Stillman of 15 Juniper Rd. spoke in favor of the appropriation but objected to this restriction on use of the funds and indicated that he thought the project should go on in any event. He pointed out that Gillette would be at work in Ballardvale now if the necessary utilities were already installed.

Also speaking for the motion were Wolf Berthold, chairman of the Industrial & Development Commission, Selectman William Stewart (who said townspeople "should feel grateful Gillette had considered Andover") and R. Wayne Long of South Main Street.

Objecting to passage of the article was Karl Haartz of 60 High Plain Rd. who claimed officials were being "too enthusiastic over the return potential." He said the plowing of roads, maintaining utilities etc. would cut into the anticipated tax "profit."

It has been estimated that Gillette will pay $125,000 in property taxes on its initial 500,000 sq. ft. facility. Through the 20 years of debt service on the bond issue to finance water, sewer and highway improvements, the town is expected to clear $50,000. Expansion of the facility in a year or two, as projected, would very nearly double the tax return.

Assurances from Chairman Allen and Manager Bowen on the procedure for use of town funds satisfied the Finance Committee which proposed and then withdrew an amendment to require authorization of not only the Selectmen, but the Fin Com as well before any expenditure from the $1 million appropriation could be made. Allen said he did not object to this procedure, but felt it could prove "clumsy" if he had to try to get all five Selectmen and seven members of the Finance Committee together at one time in order to take action.

School Debate

The article for construction of the Bancroft School was introduced with two strikes against it: the opposition of Selectmen William Stewart and Sidney P. White to the fact that the request for $1.8 million was accompanied by the news that a second appropriation to cover the cost of furnishing and equipping the building would have to be sought at the March Town Meeting. Both men, however, finally voted for the school article.

Dr. Louis Galbiati, chairman of the school committee, presented the motion. Town Manager Richard Bowen detailed the proposal, presenting slides showing the site architect's renderings etc. He told voters that the school department needs 117 classrooms at present but has only 92.

The manager said officials were disappointed that the bid for the school came in as high as it did, but that the building committee had concluded after a weekend of conferences that the building was basically economical in design and that it would be costlier to re-build and even costlier to re-design in the hope of bringing square foot construction prices down.

He said the committee had determined that the Sanborn School, which cost $22.7 per sq. ft. when built, would run $30 a sq. ft. if built today. The Bancroft School is being figured at $30.20 per sq. ft.

Wayne Long questioned the manager's figures and quoted government statistics to prove that construction costs in this New England area have increased only 16% rather than the 40% quoted by Bowen. The manager said the figures he presented were based on information collected from nearby contractors and industrial companies, as well as statistics on public projects.

Objecting to the square foot cost also was Capt. Wesley H. Randig of 36 Sunset Rock Rd., an engineer, who quoted school construction costs for a number of Southern and South Western communities, some running as low as $12.50 per square foot. Bowen replied that conditions in Massachusetts prevent construction of schools for such a figure. He pointed to the fact that state construction standards, wage rates on public projects, bidding laws and the fact that pre-engineered facilities are not permitted all contribute to making school building more expensive here. He told voters he was certain he could save 25 to 30% on the Bancroft School if he were permitted to negotiate rather than rely on public bidding.

Capt. Randig also challenged the safety of the building because of the plan to use wooden beams, but he was told by the manager that flame proofed wood is to be used and that the whole of the design for the building has the approval of the state Department of Public Safety, as is required.

Among others objecting to the building was James Eaton III, a member of the planning board. He said that he is not satisfied that the design is economical, either to build or maintain.

Selectman Robert Watters spoke for the majority of the Selectmen in support of the school, expressing

There was discussion among some fire department employees in advance of Town Meeting about whether or not a move should be made to oppose construction of a combined police-fire station of the type already designed for location on Main Street next door to Friendly's Restaurant. Two fire department sources confirmed this later. Nothing was said from the floor of the meeting. Mr. Batchelder's questioning of the quorum is regarded, however, as a spontaneous move to keep the subject open and prevent construction of the building as it is now planned.

Actually, the firemen are not alone in their opposition to the joint center. The police are equally interested in being housed close by the firefighters and both Chief Henry L. Hilton of the fire department and Chief David Nicoll of the police department have expressed dissatisfaction with any kind of housing that could lead to the sort of integrated police-fire department that Manager Richard Bowen has said he believes may be practical for Andover in the future.

For now, however, what the men oppose is the layout of a building that would put the two forces in close proximity - the firefighters on a second floor above the police department.

The police complain that they do not like the idea of coming in off a cold, winter beat to be confronted with the knowledge that firemen - who make the same pay they do - are asleep in warm beds just over their heads.

Nor do they like the idea, says Chief Nicoll, that firemen would be in a position to observe activities in the police station - the arrival of prisoners in custody or families coming to discuss personal problems, for example. This could actually lead to legal complications, according to the chief. He says firemen actually were called as witnesses for the defense in a case in a neighboring community where they had an opportunity in a joint station to observe a man charged with drunkenness by the police as he was being booked.

For their part, the firemen want to stay away from any situation where they might become involved with police duties, i.e. through assignment to a joint switchboard or emergency reporting system. Their attitude is, says Chief Hilton, that if they had wanted to be

Mrs. John Heeg of Ballardvale Rd. and Arland Atkins of Yale Rd., attended the meeting of the Massachusetts Parents' Assn. for the Deaf and Hard of Hearing held earlier this month at Newton Wellesley Hospital. The Association is vitally concerned with the educational problem caused by the German Measles epidemic of 1963-64. Over 3200 children were left with hearing losses as a result of the epidemic.

The State of Connecticut recently enacted legislation to provide local educational facilities for their hearing handicapped children. Sen. Kevin B. Harrington, Senate Majority Leader, has met with members of the association to investigate the enactment of similar legislation in Massachusetts.

Mrs. Jean Vint, assistant librarian at Memorial Hall Library, has returned from England where she and her husband vacationed.

Fame and fortune await the chemist or physiologist who uncovers a mode of causing normal colored hair to become gray. Yes, some people prefer gray or white hair before life warrants it. They look distinguished. But to date, there has been no chemical, no hormone, no vitamin to gray hair to order. Yellow discolorations of gray hair is a peculiar change in some persons. Those originally with red or blond hair are more often afflicted with a yellowish tinge upon becoming gray than are dark haired persons. A Punitive Measure?

Social Security Bill Passed

The U. S. House passed a comprehensive Social Security Bill last Thursday which coupled a 12-1/2 percent increase in retirement benefits with provisions aimed at curbing rapidly increasing welfare rolls. By a vote of 414 to 3, the House sent the bill to the Senate. Congressman F. Bradford Morse reports that as it passed the House, the major provisions are as follows:

Benefits: Benefits payments generally increased by 12-1/2 percent. This raises the minimum regular benefits from $44 to $50 a month, with the average benefit for a retired couple rising from $145 to $154 per month. These increases will be payable in the second month after the month of enactment, and would bring $2.9 billion more to 24 million retired or disabled persons next year.

Taxes: To finance this, both employee and employer would pay a payroll tax on the first $7600 of income a year instead of the first $6600 at present. This would cause a maximum employee tax increase of $44 next year for those earning $7600 or more.

Insurance Change: In 1968 the annual outside earning limitation for social security recipients would be raised from $1500 to $1680, or from $125 to $140 a month without loss of benefits. The bill also provides benefits for 50-62 year old disabled widows and widowers of covered deceased workers, and extends coverage to younger disabled workers.

Medicare: The bill authorized the Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare to conduct a study of proposals to provide allied medical services, such as medicare coverage to outpatient drug purchases. It would increase the number of days of hospitalization from 90 to 120, with the patient paying half the per-day cost of the additional 30 days. Outpatient hospital services are switched from the basic hospital program to the supplementary program, and there is a provision for the patient to collect on itemized but unpaid doctor's bills if the doctor refuses to handle the bills directly with the medicare agent. Podiatrists services for non-routine foot care would be included under medicare coverage, and it would allow full "reasonable charges" for inpatient radiological and pathological services and payments for outpatient physical therapy and diagnostic x-rays. The House version included changes in state eligibility for Medicaid. Public Welfare revisions include more stringent provisions which would increase state requirements for job training of welfare recipients and, in fact, tend to decrease the number of children eligible for assistance in the years ahead.

These welfare features came in for considerable criticism from some state and federal officials who felt that the amendments would harm efforts to improve the living conditions of many of our urban poor. Morse said in outlining the measure. However, there was no opportunity to amend the bill which came out of the Ways and Means Committee on the House Floor. The Committee was granted a closed rule which allows only committee amendments to be considered, contrary to usual procedures. Many advocates of Congressional reform have urged both alteration of procedures of this kind and realignment of committee jurisdiction in order to relate welfare programs more directly with other urban problems such as education and employment.

Morse said hearings will begin this week in the Senate and it is possible that the Senate version will incorporate changes which will be less restrictive on welfare benefits.

Housebreaks Investigated

Police are investigating two housebreaks which occurred across town from one another on Monday.

The first was reported shortly before 2 p.m. by Mrs. Edythe Luedke, 75 Porter Rd., who said the front door to her house was open when she returned from a morning away.

Every room in the house had been searched and a long list of appliances taken as well as a drum set, a chest full of mechanics tools, a hi-fi set and a ring. Entrance was gained through a side door where the glass had been broken.

At 6:21 the same day, Eli Hurwitz of 60B Washington Park Apts. discovered when he came home from work that his apartment had been disarranged and various pieces of furniture searched and damaged. Silver and jewelry were taken.

A neighbor reported that she had seen a man in the hallway with a briefcase during the morning. The break apparently took place sometime prior to the late afternoon when the apartment manager repaired the lock on the Hurwitz door.

Miss McGrath On Dean's List

Miss Sharon McGrath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger McGrath, 209 Greenwood Rd., has been named to the dean's list at Boston University for academic achievement during the last semester. She has completed her first year at Sargent College, a division of the university. She is majoring in physical therapy.

Miss McGrath is a 1966 graduate of Andover High School where she was a member of the National Honor Society for two years and head majorette of the Girls' band.

New Birth Defect Study Funded

"When babies are born with a number of congenital defects they may not be caused by what we can see but, rather, by what we cannot see," Dr. Martin Ruthman of Haverhill, a member of the medical advisory committee, Merrimack Valley Chapter of the National Foundation-March of Dimes, said today.

He announced an exciting new research approach to birth defects to go forward under a new grant of $57,445 from the National Foundation-March of Dimes. The award was announced jointly today by the Boston hospital's general director, Dr. Leonard W. Cronkrite Jr. and Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation.

The project, which is under the overall supervision of Dr. Charles A. Janeway, physician-in-chief at the hospital and Thomas Morgan Rotch, professor of pediatrics at Harvard Medical School, will be directed by Dr. Park Gerald, chief of Clinical genetics at Children's Hospital Medical Center.

When questioned about the new approach, Dr. Gerald explained that birth defects are frequently attributed to abnormal chromosomes. But the Boston team feels that, in some cases, the disorder may be due to the aggregate action of a group of faulty genes - which are part of the chromosome - rather than the chromosome itself.

Chromosomes, tiny rod-like bodies found in the cells of all living things, can be seen under the microscope. Genes, tiny invisible particles strung along the length of the chromosome - like beads in a necklace - are so small they cannot be seen, even with a high-powered microscope. Genes determine a person's hereditary traits.

Says researcher Gerald: "Some chromosome abnormalities are major and cause multiple malformations involving such important organs as the heart and the brain. Though early death often results, if the afflicted infant lives long enough we find that sometimes he is mentally retarded."

"Other chromosome defects are minor," Dr. Gerald went on to say, "for example a tiny piece of one chromosome may be missing and another have an extra part. These too can create birth defects though generally fewer and milder. However such cases may help our research because we hope to relate specific body defects to particular, small chromosome segments."

He added that the Boston team's research aim is that of finding out whether or not a body defect can be tied to a defect in the genes.

"If we are lucky, we may discover that certain traits go together. These are called linked traits because the genes which cause them lie close together on the chromosome necklace," Dr. Gerald declared.

Pointing out that the cause of most common birth defects, like spinal bifida and cleft palate, is still unknown, Dr. Gerald concluded by saying that, "We hope our findings will give us a better understanding of the role played by heredity in birth defects and facilitate our task of genetic counselling."

Views of Salem between the years 1770 and 1870 are on display in the Essex Institute, 132 Essex St., Salem, for the period ending Oct. 1, bringing to the modern visitor the realization that interest in Salem architecture is not a new development.

Oldest picture in the show is a watercolor of School Street from the Old Town House painted by Dr. Joseph Orne between 1765 and 1770 while a student with Dr. Edward Augustus Holyoke. There are still parts of Salem where this scene would appear natural today.

Two 10-week courses, "Preparation for the Real Estate Broker's Examination" and "Real Estate Practice", will be conducted at the Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute beginning in September.

The prep course will include basic fundamentals of the real estate business and pertinent phases necessary to prepare class members for the state examination. John J. Freeman, past President of the Greater Lynn Board of Realtors, will conduct the program. The class will meet from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on 10 consecutive Tuesday evenings beginning on Sept. 5.

F. J. Leone Is Expanding

Frank J. Leone, president and treasurer of F. J. Leone Co. has announced that construction of a 20,000 sq. ft. expansion to the company's retail store in Methuen is underway.

Two years ago last June, Leone's opened its store in what had been the International Mills building and converted it into one of the largest furniture, rug and appliance showrooms in New England.

In making his announcement, Leone stated that the addition of new lines, the need for more display area and general public response to the new store necessitated the present accelerated expansion. It is expected that the addition to the building will be completed and occupied in early October this year.

The F. J. Leone Co. was founded in Lawrence in September of 1931 and began operations in an Essex Street store near the corner of Franklin Street. In 1944 Leone's occupied a five-story building on Essex Street, where it remained until increased sales volume dictated further expansion. In February of 1965, the four-acre Methuen mill building was purchased, modified and converted.
The new store, which comprises showrooms on two floors, was opened on June 22, 1965.

Taxpayers Charge

Non-Vets Discriminated Against

The Massachusetts Civil Service system so discriminates against non-veterans that the state might just as well advertise, "Jobs for veterans only, no others need apply," Frank J. Zeo, executive vice president of the Massachusetts Taxpayers Foundation said Monday.

Speaking before the Westfield
Rotary Club, Zeo said that absolute preference for armed forces veterans in the Massachusetts Civil Service system is costing the taxpayers millions of dollars annually while impairing the quality of public service throughout the state.

"Half the employees under civil service are veterans," Zeo explained, "75 percent of the men under state civil service got their jobs through absolute preference."

Though more than half the veterans do get good grades in qualifying examinations, he said,
"the problem is the veteran who gets merely a passing grade of 70 - or appeals a failing grade to a 70 - and automatically floats to the top of the eligible list over a non-veteran who might score as high as 95 or 99. This unfair arrangement hurts the quality of government, particularly in scientific, professional and key administration posts."

Zeo said that since there are

Library Has Answers To Science Puzzlers

Does the "book-learning" you picked up in your formal school days suffice for today? Does it help you to understand the changes in the world around you? Or, does it merely date you? How many elements are there? How does television work? How will they use contributing balloons in communications? A goodly number of us are convinced that there are "quite a few" basic chemical elements, that television works when you turn on the switch, and that they've got some "thingamajig" in the silver balloon that catches things and sends them back to earth. Not very profound understanding is it, in a world where knowledge is power? Physics, genetics, chemistry, communications, and dozens of subjects that we may never have heard of in our school years have developed tremendously in the past 50 years or so. Most of us haven't quite figured out what makes an airplane stay up and now we learn that the propeller airplane is obsolete and that even jets are probably slated to be replaced by rockets.

Memorial Hall Library has hundreds of authoritative, up-to-date guides to today's sciences, for the layman and the expert alike. How about Ginestra Arnold's OUR WORLD AND THE UNIVERSE AROUND IT, an attempt to explain, as clearly as possible, the most current scientific theories and achievements in astronomy, space explorations, chemistry, physics, geology, and biology. Or take William C. Vergara's SCIENCE IN EVERYDAY THINGS - the answers to hundreds of questions.

Fiction Catalog
Want to read a war novel about the Battle of Gettysburg? Like an exciting story of frontier and pioneer life? Interested in novels about doctors, diplomats, or detectives? Or are you, perhaps, partial to suspense stories, tales about the sea, or novels about self-made men?

The newly-published 1961-65 edition of the FICTION CATALOG, which has been added to the Memorial Hall Library reference collection, will help you locate interesting adult novels published during the past five years on these and many other subjects. Arrangement in the first part of the book is by the name of the author, while in the latter portion novels are arranged by title and subject. Historical novels are divided by era (such as U. S. - 18th century - French and Indian War) to aid in the selection of stories dealing with a particular period.

For each book entered, information is given about publisher, date of publication, price, paging, summary of the plot, and critical opinion from reviews. All the novels included have been recommended by fiction specialists in libraries of various types and sizes in all parts of the country. Also available at the library are earlier editions of the catalog covering up to 1960.

Summer Club
One of the most priceless gifts you can pass along to your children is a love of reading and the conviction that the pursuit of knowledge is fun. It's easy to show - not tell - how much enjoyment reading brings. Let them see you read often at home, come with them to Memorial Hall Library, give gifts of books, and, in general, show by example that reading is truly worthwhile and fills a need.

The deadline for completing the requirements of the summer reading club is drawing near. Time is running out! Friday, Sept. 1, is the last day for reporting on books read this summer. The teams are very even at the moment, with the blue team holding the edge by a slim margin. If your children have not reported on their books, they have a week to do so, and Miss Russell, Mrs. Berry, and Mrs. Eldridge look forward to seeing them.

Club Meetings Etc.
Fall is the season when people begin to plan for their club activities. Books on the art of running a club meeting smoothly and on parliamentary practice are available at Memorial Hall Library. The library also has material on the various other phases of club operation, including the duties of officers, the work of committees, getting new members, program planning, and publicity.

Especially helpful are such manuals as Edward Hegarty's HOW TO RUN BETTER MEETINGS, Sidney Sutherland's WHEN YOU PREPARE, and Bertram Strauss's NEW WAYS TO BETTER MEETINGS. Useful guides to parliamentary practice are also available, such as the STURGIS STANDARD CODE OF PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE by Alice Sturgis.

Great Books
The 16th season for the Great Books discussion group gets underway this fall on every other Tuesday night at Memorial Hall Library. As in the past, the group will be chaired by Robert Rockwell and Miss Helen Stearns. The group will be taking set five of the adult series, which includes such works as Ibsen's THE WILD DUCK, Chaucer's THE CANTERBURY TALES, Goethe's FAUST, and Boccaccio's THE DECAMERON. There is plenty of time left to become a member of the only adult Great Books group in Greater Lawrence. For further information, call, or better still, drop into Memorial Hall Library.

Crafts Display
The creative handcrafted items on exhibition in the display cabinet, to the right as one enters the library, are the artifacts of the members of the Hay Scales Exchange in North Andover, and are placed there by the courtesy of Mrs. Robert V. L. French, president.

Although enthusiasm for outdoor activities has increased considerably in recent years, there are still many Andoverians who may prefer the comfort of steam-heated warmth and choose to remain indoors, pursuing old familiar hobbies or discovering new ones. The Hay Scales products are there to draw attention to what can be accomplished by the creative person interested in spending his time profitably, and to highlight the wide range of hobby and craft books of the do-it-yourself variety which are available at Memorial Hall Library.

The library has books which will satisfy such diverse interests as weaving, ceramics, crewel, embroidery, decoupage and plastic sculpture, knitting, leathercraft, carpentry, and what have you.

New Books
MacLennan - RETURN OF THE SPHINX (A novel of Montreal)
Toynbee - ACQUAINTANCES
Smith - SON OF RHUBARB
Agnon - THE BRIDAL CANOPY (Winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature)
Trager - WHY VIET NAM?
Stevens - LETTERS
Fry - THE WHITE SANDS INCIDENT (Dr. Fry's ride in a flying saucer)

A "no" is not only obvious, it is a sure sign of a good student would be the cheapest but certainly would contribute to the aesthetic of the town of Andover or fond memories of the who attend. There are attributes which cause a town to thrive and prosper. The most important is the number of young people the town can hold. A good place to start is the town of Andover to build the Bancroft School. It is a good place to start with little or no change, as selected and the which works into the natural should be adjacent to the a lasting memorial to the of its residents.

To all who contributed in any way, with time and donations, a very sincere thank you. The drive was a great success.

Joe Barton
34 Florence St.

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN:
In 1941 the United States and the United Kingdom declared, in the Atlantic Charter, that they "respect the right of all peoples to choose the form of government under which they will live." A decade later, Senator John F. Kennedy declared, "We have allied ourselves to the desperate effort of a French regime to hang on to the remnants of empire." We are now embroiled in a war to remake Vietnam in our own image, because our leaders have been completely ignorant of the people and history of that unfortunate country. Time and again our President, bolstered by Secretaries Rusk and McNamara, has escalated the war, reported great progress, and then escalated again as an admission of failure.

These men would have us believe that we are saving Vietnam from communist aggression, whereas the Vietnamese are locked in a death struggle to repel the Western invader from their land. Our leaders are making us devastate a land and slaughter its people. We are creating political chaos in Vietnam by splitting the country into many factions. We are squandering our material wealth and wasting the lives of our young men. We bequeath to our descendants the hatred of us in Asia, a hatred that may last a hundred years or more. We are destroying our illustrious political heritage. Our shots are heard round the world, but we can not be proud of them. As Walter Lippmann has written, "There is not a single independent state in Europe or in Asia which follows our lead. . . . No European government could survive today if it joined us on the battlefield. . . . As for the Asian peoples we are supposed to be saving, no independent Asian state - not Japan, India, Pakistan, Burma, Malaysia, Indonesia - is giving us even token support."

President Johnson is now taking steps to provoke China into war-like acts. Through his Undersecretary of State, he claims that he can have dictatorial powers without even waiting for them to be conferred upon him. There is still time, but not much, for Americans to show the courage and principles of the founders of our country, by standing up in opposition to the war and to the abuse of power.

Summer Food Tips

Warm weather is here again and salads such as chicken, egg, tuna and potato become popular for cold plates and sandwiches. But, remember the warning that these delicious salad foods are especially subject to bacterial growth that could cause food poisoning.

Many foods require special care in the summertime when room temperature is often as high as the outdoor temperature. In addition to salads made with mayonnaise, poultry, ham, ground meats, cream pies and custard-filled pastries are considered high-risk foods. Bacteria growth is especially great between 40-120 degrees Fahrenheit. A good rule to remember is that the total time food is held between these temperatures should not exceed 4 hours. This could mean 1 hour during preparation, 2 hours on the way to a picnic and 1 hour on the picnic table - the time is cumulative.

Refrigeration does not kill bacteria. It only retards the growth of the food poisoning bacteria. A refrigerated chest of some sort can do a great deal to prevent the growth of bacteria on the way to the picnic and at the picnic. To keep foods cold longer make certain they are well chilled before putting in the chilled chest or cooler.

A few special precautions before the picnic will prevent any illness after the picnic.

Mrs. Jean Paul Proulx

(Bachrach)

Proulx - Salazar

At high noon Aug. 19, Rosita Luisa Salazar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luis A. Salazar, 2 West Knoll Rd. and Jean Paul Proulx, son of Mrs. Lucy Proulx of Cambridge and the late Joseph P. Proulx were united in marriage at St. Augustine's Church. The altars and pews were decorated with white chrysanthemums.

Rev. Kenneth Kennedy OSA, pastor at St. Augustine's Church, performed the ceremony, after which there was a reception in Independence Hall at the Sheraton Boston Hotel.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory peau de sole gown with reem-broidered Alencon lace outlining the scalloped portrait neckline and bordering three-quarter length sleeves. The detachable Camelot peau de sole train was cathedral length and outlined in reem-broidered Alencon lace. The bride's mother designed her veil of imported French silk illusion. It fell from an ivory Spanish comb and was complemented by tiny clusters of orange blossoms close to both sides of the head. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of stephanotis and Eucharist lilies.

The maid of honor, flower girl and bridesmaids wore Tahiti coral gowns of Venice lace with petal rose crepe skirts. They were cut with high rising waistlines and a cascade of appliques of lace fell from the back neckline. The bridesmaids carried yellow Fudi mums against a fan of bird of paradise plumes and wore floor length meline veils with appliques of coral lace.

Miss Joyce Connolly of Andover was maid of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Dale Bockbrader of Gary, Ind., Miss Joyce Berube of Woburn, Mrs. Jack Hagerty of Cambridge, sister of the bridegroom, Miss Irene Kearns of Winchester, Miss Francesca Moulton of North Andover and Miss Vickie Mitchell of Beverly.

The Misses Cricket Potter of North Andover and Janice Elaine Giles of Andover were flower girls.

Raymond L. Proulx of Cambridge, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Norman Proulx and Jack Hagarty of Cambridge, Dr. Fernando N. Salazar of Detroit, Mich., brother of the bride, Martin Michaud of Methuen, Charles Regan of Ipswich and John Regan of Lawrence.

Master Kevin Hagarty and Master John Paul Hagarty, nephews of the groom, were pages.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Salazar chose a yellow floor length silk chiffon gown designed by the Cuban designer Abeledo. It was decorated with seeded pearls.

The bridesroom's mother wore a floor length lime colored gown. The bride arrived at the church in a surrey pulled by a Morgan stallion. The surrey, which is owned and was driven by Alfred Sawyer of Jaffrey, N.H., was last used to drive Mrs. Calvin Coolidge when she visited McDowell Colony in New Hampshire.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the couple will make their home at 1812 Turnpike St., North Andover.

The bride attended St. Mary's Academy in Lawrence, Mount Ida Junior College and Boston University. Her husband is a graduate of Cambridge Latin High School and owner of The Equestrian Shop, North Andover.

DISCARD IT!

A large majority of the medicines used today to treat illness are potent in nature. For this reason it is extremely dangerous to use a prescription made for one person to treat what may appear to be a similar condition in another person.

When a course of treatment for an illness is ended, the unused portion of the medicine should be discarded. If this is not financially practical, always consult your physician before using any medication you might have in your possession.

Methuen Memorial Music Hall will conclude its summer series of organ concerts on Wednesday, Aug. 30, at 8:30 p.m. when Rev. David Gallagher of the Stigmatine Fathers will be presented for the third consecutive year.

Father Gallagher is music director and organist at St. Michael's Parish, Annandale, Va. For this summer season his headquarters is Springfield, Mass.

The priest's musical studies at Boston University were interrupted when he entered the seminary, and later when he studied in Rome to earn his license in theology (S.T.L.) degree. Presently he is finishing his master of music degree back at BU.

His program on Aug. 30 will include: "We all believe in One True God"; "Rejoice now, Christian Souls"; "Sleepers Wake! A Voice is Calling"; "O God, be Merciful unto me"; "My Heart ever Faithful" (arr. Gigout) - J.S. Bach; Canon in B minor - Schumann; Chorale No. 3 in A minor - Cesar Franck; Toccata (First Performance) - Arslanian; Sicilienne (Suite Opus 5) - Durufle; Variations on a Noel - Dupre.

Fall organ concerts scheduled at Methuen include Gillian Weir on Sept. 27, international organist from New Zealand, now living in London, and Berj Zamkochian on Oct. 25, organist for Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The Phillips-Abbot choral concert with Dr. Lorene Banta as organist, will again be presented on Nov. 19.

Hart Plans Orientation

There will be an orientation day for new junior high school teachers Aug. 29, according to Principal William E. Hart.

The program will begin at 9:15 a.m. and continue through 2:30 p.m. Among those speaking will be Miss Miriam Putnam, town librarian; Richard E. Neal, assistant principal; Miss Katherine Sweeney, dean of girls; Robert Bachmann, audio-visual director; and Principal Hart.

Mrs. Daniel Takesian
(Breda)

Takesian - Simeone

Miss Joan-Ellen Simeone, daughter of Mrs. Paul P. Simeone Jr. and the late Paul P. Simeone Jr. of 13 Stratford Rd., became the bride of Daniel Takesian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Takesian of Lawrence Sunday, Aug. 6, at an afternoon ceremony in South Church.

Rev. Levone H. T. Fairbanks, pastor of Trinity Congregational Church of Fitchburg and uncle of the bridegroom, officiated before an altar decorated with white gladioli, yellow and orange daisy mums set in hemlock and laural greens, carrying out the color scheme of the wedding party.

The bride given in marriage by her brother, Wayne A. Simeone, wore a gown of silk organza fashioned with a sculptured neckline, elbow length sleeves and banded with hand embroidered appliques of Alencon lace flower motifs, an Empire waistline and an A-line skirt adorned with three bands of the same applique as on sleeves. The A-line skirt ended in a Watteau Cathedral length train. Her cathedral length, three-tier veil of silk illusion was attached to an imported scalloped lace cap.

She carried a cascade of white roses, baby carnations and stephanotis centered with an orchid. Mrs. Thomas W. Jenkins of Methuen was matron of honor. She wore a mint green floor length gown of imported chiffon over taffeta, fashioned with a crescent waistline outlined in Alencon lace. A bow with streamers decorated the dress at the back of the waist. Her head piece was a matching chiffon rose with a net veil to match. She carried a cascade of large orange painted daisy mums and yellow tea roses.

The bridesmaids wore orange-ice gowns styled identically to that worn by the matron of honor. They were Miss Rosemary Takesian, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Richard Striano of Taunton and Mrs. Vincent Belpedio of Andover. They carried cascades of large yellow daisy mums, and orange-yellow butterfly roses.

Richard Takesian Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

The ushers were John Motta, cousin of the bridegroom, of Lawrence, Donald Kranellis of Brighton, Thomas W. Jenkins and Ronald Abraham of Methuen.

A reception following the ceremony was held at DiBurro's in Bradford.

The bride is a graduate of Andover High School and received a bachelor's degree in music education from Lowell State College. She has taught music in the elementary and junior high schools in Amesbury and Enfield, Conn. She will be teaching in the Andover school system starting this fall.

The bridegroom graduated from Lawrence High School and East Coast Aero Technical Institute where he received an associate degree in Aeronautics. He is the manager of Don Kennetts Auto and Industrial Supplies of Lawrence.

Mr. and Mrs. Takesian will live in North Andover.

Fair To Honor Senior Citizens

The Essex Agricultural Society, sponsors of the Topsfield Fair, which will stage its 143rd annual edition beginning Sunday, Sept. 3, Labor Day week-end, and continuing through Saturday night, Sept. 9, once again has remembered the county's senior citizens.

Paul Corson, general manager at Topsfield Fair, has announced that Tuesday, Sept. 5, has been designated "Senior Citizen's Day" for this year's exposition. Senior citizens will be guests of Topsfield Fair and will be invited to visit the varied displays and exhibits without charge on their day. More than 1000 senior citizens were Fair guests in 1966.

What's Your Problem

Counseling May "Fix" A Marriage

COUNSELING
This is a series offered by the Family Service Association of Greater Lawrence, affiliated with the United Fund of Greater Lawrence. It deals with problems that a great many people bring to counseling agencies to discuss and work out. The professional staff members of the Family Service are social workers with graduate degrees and extensive experience in helping people solve problems.

What's a good marriage? Most people would think that they could expect a prompt and easy answer to that question from a family counselor. After all, everybody has read those "Have You Found Your Ideal Mate?" quizzes in the magazines, and marriage counselors ought to know the rules a little lot better than quiz writers, wouldn't they?

Actually, there is no simple answer. What may be a fine marriage for one couple would be a completely mixed-up mess for another. You can write a set of specifications for the construction of a library or for the baking of an apple pie . . . but not for a marriage.

Couples meet and marry because they have certain needs. Each sees in the other qualities and attributes that seem to meet those needs. Often they do. Sometimes they don't. If they don't it's up to the husbands and wives to find out what went wrong.

Family counselors know that more often than not, the couples were right in their original estimate of each other. But something happened, a baby was born, a parent on whom one partner depended a great deal died, or perhaps a minister or priest both felt very close to left the parish. Something vital that experts call "the marital balance" was upset. Usually, a counselor can help such a couple find out what the upsetting factor really was, and the marriage will be as solid (or even more solid) than before.

There are other factors that can influence marital balance, which are more subtle. The husband or the wife can become more mature, without a similar maturing process taking place in the partner. There is the husband who was young and insecure and wanted a wife to mother him . . . now that he has gained self-assurance he feels that the mothering is really smothering. Or the wife who wanted someone to boss in order to bolster her own lagging self-confidence. Now that she is surer of herself she wants a man . . . not a mouse. These situations, where values and feelings have changed, are often harder to straighten out. But often counseling can help both partners to decide whether their differences are more imagined than real.

In any case, when the balance has become upset, something needs to be done to re-establish it again. The earlier this is done the better, before repeated quarrels and crises have eaten away at the partners. Often husbands and wives can themselves figure out what went wrong, and what to do about it. But if they can't . . . just call your local family service agency for professional help.

Sr., director of The Conservation Council for Route 495, "is to help bring off the marriage of beauty and progress in the future development of 495. We are hoping to avoid a topsy-like growth and the resulting mistakes that we will have to live with and pass on to coming generations. We feel that EXPOSURE 495 can give meaning to three important goals: 1) a regional approach to the development of this highway; 2) provide a sense of direction for local and State Legislative bodies on issues that might affect the road; 3) and above all, bring a spirit of working cooperation to the cities and towns along its course. EXPOSURE 495 can do this by placing the future of this vital highway under the microscope of public concern. Too often we recognize these problems only after they have happened. Interstate 495 can be the exception, but we will have to decide now, tomorrow will be too late. It is a now, or never kind of thing."

Ross founded The Conservation Council for Route 495 less than a year ago in an effort to preserve the beauty of this highway that has been cited by a national magazine as "the second most scenic highway in the country." To date, some 27 towns that presently border the route or lie in its future path have joined the Council.

Those interested in attending EXPOSURE 495 are asked to contact Ross at 80 Central Street, Hudson, Mass., 01749; or Richard Mailey c/o The Massachusetts Audubon Society, South Great Rd., Lincoln, Mass., 01773.

Cabot Corp. announces the election of John G. Whitham to the position of assistant secretary of the company. Mr. Whitham has been with Cabot since Dec. 1, 1941.

He attended schools in Lawrence, from 1942 to 1946 he continued his of commander.

policemen, they would have taken the police exam.

As for comments about the fact that they are permitted to sleep while on duty, firefighters dismiss these by noting that they work 14 hour shifts while patrolmen are on duty for just eight daily.

They are quick to add, also,
that police officers snatch 40 winks here and there . . . the sergeant dozes at the desk and men in cruisers alternate naps, they say in their own defense.

Where all the dissension over the safety center will end is uncertain.

Both Selectmen William Stewart and Sidney P. White have said that they do not like the contemporary design of the building now in the manager's hands and Stewart said Wednesday that he would much rather see the two departments housed separately, but adjacent to one another.

"There are places for contemporary buildings, but we have certain characteristics which attracted people to Andover and I would like to see us retain them," Stewart added. Selectman White has made similar statements on more than one occasion.

The Selectmen have not actually taken a vote to see how the majority stands on the public safety center question. They did vote some months ago to approve a joint structure, but just how many of them will support the plans proposed is uncertain.

At that time Manager Bowen opposed location of the police department on North Main Street, expressing the view that police headquarters should be in a more convenient spot uptown. Once the decision was made to put both on the old Tye warehouse property, however, the manager took the firm position that they should be in

Board Ups Plumbing Fees

After reviewing a survey of costs of plumbing permits in some surrounding towns, the Andover board of health agreed at its last meeting that fees for permits in the Town of Andover should be comparable with those in other nearby communities.

As a result, beginning Sept. 1, the fee for plumbing permits will be as follows:

Single dwellings, $10.00, minimum.
Multiple dwellings, commercial and industrial buildings, $1.00 per fixture, $10.00, minimum.

Old buildings, $1.00 per fixture, $5.00 minimum.

their disappointment at the bid price as well as their opinion that nothing would be gained by delay. Speaking for the minority, Selectman White said he was concerned about the long list of items to be deleted in order to economize, about the fact that an additional appropriation would be needed and that the contractor has indicated the building will not be ready for September, 1968. The manager explained that the town had requested construction in 365 calendar days, but that the single bid received stipulates completion in 450 calendar days.

Also speaking in support of the school was John S. Sullivan of Sunset Rock Road, a member of the State Board of Education and a former chairman of the Andover School Committee. He said he has consulted state specialists in school construction and been told that school costs are running $22 to $28 per sq. ft. now and that they will likely hit $30 a sq. ft. over the next few months.

Among others supporting the appropriation were Raymond Lloyd of 32 Lovejoy Rd. and Arthur Neumark, a member of the planning board.

Given quick approval were articles which will permit the town to tow illegally parked vehicles and $200,000 appropriation to do most of the work still necessary to complete the senior high school building on Shawsheen Road.

The Selectmen had been prepared to oppose the Finance Committee on its recommendation for the $200,000 and ask voters to approve the $300,000 requested by the building committee. A compromise was reached, however, and it was agreed that bids will be sought for fencing and improvements to the grounds to be presented at the March Town Meeting. The vote: Yes - 529; No - 3.

There was slightly more extended discussion of an article to appropriate $80,000 to plan a 24-room addition to the 12-room West School. Among those opposing the large addition were James Eaton III and School Committeeman William A. Doherty who said he favors sticking with the town's previous practice of building smaller neighborhood schools. The article was approved by a standing vote majority.
